Greetings to Alumni

To Alumni, Former Students and Friends of the University:

On behalf of the Homecoming Committee, let me welcome you home, and when we use the word "home" we mean all that the word implies.

Remember this: Your Alma Mater has always had, and will continue to have, an unselfish interest in your welfare. We have a common Mother, our Alma Mater, and yet, many of us are not acquainted with each other. Let this be a joyous occasion. When you see an Alumnus, a former student or a friend of the University, introduce yourself. When you hear Pat Keely, our yell leader, ask for a "yell," give such a cheer that your team, fighting on the field, will know that the Alumni are back.

Make the most of this occasion. Let us make this, our Homecoming, a real Homecoming.

Yours sincerely,

GEORGE R. SHEPARD,
Chairman, Homecoming Committee.

LAST APPEARANCE

Today's game will be the last appearance on Dornblaser field for Captain Lou Vierhus, Clark Whitcomb, Clarence Coyle, William Rafferty, Sam Kain, Marshall Murray, and Curtis Brittenham.

Captain Lou came to Montana from Oregon to take Forestry. In his three years of varsity competition Lou has been a true Grizzly. He is truly making a great captain of one of the greatest teams Montana has produced.

Whitty, originally a Helena boy, returned to Montana after spending several years at St. John's Academy. For three years he has held down a regular birth at tackle and has proved a Rock of Gibraltar to all foes.

Besides his ability in football, Clarence has played three years of basketball, being captain of last year's squad. He also has been a mainstay on the track squad for three seasons.

Raff was elected last spring to pilot the 1928 baseball team. Besides playing a mean game at center on the football squad he is no slouch of a pitcher. Bill claims Minnesota as his home state.

Marsh showed himself last year to be as fine a linesman as ever wore the copper, silver and gold. Our only regret is that this will be Marsh's last season in the tri-color uniform.

Britt demonstrated his ability to give and take punishment while playing end for Kalispell. Since coming to Montana he has held down a regular position on the varsity.

THE GRIZZLY BAND

Albert Hoelscher
Director

Montana's band, composed of over 60 members, is considered to be one of the best University bands in the Northwest.

Albert Hoelscher, present director, took charge of the band in the fall of 1925 and is deserving of a lot of credit for building up a concert organization that the students of this institution can be justly proud of.

There is never a time, no matter what the occasion, that the band refuses to appear and their concerts have accomplished much in developing more spirit at Montana.

This year's band is composed of musicians from all parts of the state, practically every large city and town is represented, and Mr. Hoelscher states that the band, due to the fact so many upper-classmen have enrolled this year, will be the finest in the history of the University.

Welcome Home

HOMECOMING is one of Missoula's great days to celebrate. Missoula is just as glad to see her returning friends, and we know they are just as happy to get back to the old town once again.

The University has changed somewhat since the memory of returning graduates. Note the great improvements in the physical plant, its new athletic fields, and its huge student body. The school spirit is no better, but larger and healthier—a real school now confronts you.

Donohue's and the Great State University had their beginnings in the year 1895. They have grown up and prospered quite alike. Reliable institutions always survive through time.

Prosperity

ALL WESTERN Montana basks in the sunshine of prosperity. In the new order of things please note the recently approved two million dollar sugar factory, new railroad construction, new aviation field, new paving, new city business blocks, and no unemployment. Western Montana people are this day happy and contented.

The Big Parade—

Headed by a Grizzly bear, and followed by the University band, a crack squad from the R. O. T. C., and floats of the various Greek-letter organizations, the Homecoming Parade will form at 11:30 o'clock, Saturday morning, on Gerald avenue, near the Kappa Sigma house. The procession will cross the bridge, go down Higgins avenue to the N. P. depot, and back across the bridge to University avenue, where it will disband.

The floats are to be representative of Homecoming and the A. S. U. M. has offered a prize of $25 for the best float.

DORNBLASER FIELD

Montana's new $20,000 Dornblaser field was formally dedicated Saturday, October 3, 1925, when George Shepard, president of the trustees of the Alumni-Challenge Athletic Field Corporation, presented the new field and stadium to the University. The old field had served Montana since 1898.

The athletic field was called Montana field until 1920, when the name was changed to Dornblaser field as a lasting monument to the memory of Paul Logan Dornblaser, a Grizzly football star and one of Montana's war heroes.

MONTANA'S MANAGER

McFarlin

Heinie McFarlin, of Billings, was appointed manager for the 1927 football season last spring, by Central Board upon the recommendation of the coaches.

The manager's position is indeed a tough one and one deserving of a lot of credit.

His hours are long and he must ever be on the job. Not only does he look after the equipment, but he also performs the duties of a trainer.

McFarlin served as assistant manager last year and is to be commended upon the way he has thus far handled the position this season.

STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

On November 19, insofar as the State of Montana is concerned, comes the most important gridiron contest of the 1927 season when the Montana Grizzlies meet the Montana State Bobcats on Clark Field, Butte.

At the last Homecoming celebration in 1925 the Grizzlies took the Bobcats for a 28-7 victory. Last year the contest was staged in Butte for the first time and resulted in another University victory, 27-0.

Since 1897 when the Grizzlies defeated the Bobcats 18-6 in the first contest played between the two schools, the University has won 19 games, tied 4, and lost 5 from their State College opponents. The last Bobcat victory was in 1908. After playing a 0-0 game the Grizzlies were defeated 5-0 in a return contest.

In the period of athletic relationship between the two schools the University has amassed 402 points against 166 for the State College.

To the Memory of Paul Logan Dornblaser

Montana's premier football hero, a man who was always a true Montanan, who fought—not for personal glory—but for the glory of the Silver, Copper, and Gold.

Montana's athletic field was named "Dornblaser Field" in 1920 as a living monument to that man who, during his four years of gridiron history, was forever a menace to any foe and was constantly in the fight, carrying on for Montana.

Paul Logan Dornblaser, '14, was killed in action at Mount Blanc, France, on October 8, 1918.

A BIG BEGINNING

THE WORLD seldom sees a man when he starts, but the world is always watching the man if he makes a good finish. The athlete attracts little attention in his first year. It's when he does something spectacular that the world begins to turn its eyes on him. Who was "Wild Bill Kelly" in the grades, or even in high school? Who ever heard of "Lindy" back in that northern town?

Do you think that anyone cared a whoop for James Hill when "Jim" was a dock boy? What did the world know about "Tom" Edison as a news butcher? Who gave a hang for U. S. Grant, the mule-skinner—the man they called "Useless" Grant?

How many people knew of "Abe" Lincoln as a rail-splitter? "Jack" Jones, years ago a bronco-buster book agent in Wyoming, attracted little attention until he put the Alexander Hamilton Institute on the intellectual map of two worlds. Now John G. Jones is known on two hemispheres as an authority on how to achieve.

The great trouble with most young men is that they want to start at the point where their predecessor finished. They seem to think the world is watching them when they begin. Not so.

The world will never see you until you prove by results that you deserve recognition.

Some of the biggest merchants, bankers and business men in our country were once the "chairmen of the board of directors" of the corn-broom brigade.

"Hank" Ford walked out of a wilderness, but who watched him walk? Very few.

Great Julius attended a flock. Shakespeare cleaned the horse stables and Garfield was a towpath pilot of a pair of mules.

These men did not attract much attention at the beginning.

J. C. Penney opened a small store in a little Wyoming mining town just twenty-five years ago, with $500.00 capital. Now his name is over 885 store doors in almost every state in the union—with thousands of co-partners no more capable than you.

Few know about your start, but everybody will watch your finish, if you finish up front.

The observed are those who have discovered an opportunity and then developed it. The beginner is seldom noticed by the world until he proves he is no longer a beginner.

When a young man puts aside personal pride, vanity, airs and pretension—when a young man throws away that peacock conceit and begins as did the Galilean carpenter and builder—begins in a small way and by growing skill and better service increases his patronage and correspondingly fixes his prosperity, it is then that the world will see this man, and not until then.

Fix these truths firmly in your mind, young man, and you have made a big beginning.
